HKU POLITICS & LAW: 1924

The study of Government and Laws at The University of Hong Kong (HKU) harks back to 1924, when the Cambridge-educated jurist George Keeton LLD FBA (1902-1989) accepted an appointment to become the inaugural Lecturer of Political Science and Jurisprudence and later Reader in Law and Politics at HKU.

During Professor Keeton’s stint at HKU, the future Dean of Laws and Vice-Provost of University College London (UCL) and heroic anti-Nazi intellectual proposed the creation of a 5-year double degree programme in political science and law. He co-established with his HKU students an academic society and a student-edited academic journal on law and public affairs of the highest standard, copies of which were circulated in university libraries across the world, illuminating topics ranging from ancient customary law to Traditional Chinese law to the latest legal reforms in Europe.

Keeton’s departure from Hong Kong in 1927 and all the chaos in the lead up to the Second World War resulted in a premature end to all of the eminent jurist’s visionary initiatives. In 1972, Keeton returned to HKU to be honoured with a Doctor of Laws (LLD) degree. In 1999, one decade after his death, his vision was fulfilled when the Bachelor of Social Sciences (Government and Laws) & Bachelor of Laws Double Degree Programme (HKU GLaws) opened its doors to some of the brightest students from Hong Kong and beyond.
WHAT IS HKU GLAWS?

HKU GLaws is a prestigious undergraduate programme that no serious student interested in law and public affairs can afford to overlook.

Since 1999, HKU GLaws has brought forth cohort after cohort of outstanding lawyers in public and private practice, administrative officers (AOs), business professionals, professors, journalists, and leaders of the non-profit sector. The Programme’s mission is to educate principled leaders who will advance the public interest and the rule of law by offering innovative solutions to problems confronting our society and beyond.

WHY THIS COMBINATION?

Unlike the stand-alone law degree, HKU GLaws draws on multiple disciplines such as comparative politics, political philosophy and ethics, international relations, and public administration to nurture top-notch thinkers who are competent at attacking legal problems from all angles.

The most important developments in our present age regularly feature the intersection of government and laws, be it public health emergency responses to pandemics, transnational humanitarian crises, trade disputes between major powers, and so on. It is virtually impossible for anyone interested in a career in law, public service, international governance, international commerce, and non-governmental organisations to stand out from a crowd without a grasp of government and laws.

GLaws students enjoy the flexible option of graduating with one BSocSc (Govt & Laws) degree in 4 years, or an BSocSc (Govt & Laws) degree plus an LLB degree in 5 years. They are entitled to make an informed choice on whether to pursue the 4-Year Track or the 5-Year Track at the end of their second year.

Good laws, if they are not obeyed, do not constitute good government.

WHY HKU?

Be Part of an Eminent Tradition. HKU counts among its alumni Dr. Sun Yat-sen, the founding president of Modern China; Lim Bo Seng, Singapore’s national hero; Fu Bingchang, China’s ambassador to Belgium and the Soviet Union; judges of the Hong Kong Court of Final Appeal, and numerous first-class legal minds whose impact can be felt beyond Hong Kong.

Politics and public administration have been taught at HKU for more than one century, since 1915, training generations after generations of public servants. The combined study of law and politics at HKU dates back to 1924. The HKU LLB was first offered in 1969.

Study at Asia’s Global University. HKU’s Department of Politics and Public Administration and Faculty of Law are consistently ranked among the top in Asia and worldwide. In 2022, QS World University Rankings ranked HKU Politics and Public Administration 35th in the world, and HKU Law 20th.
HKU GLaws is a multidisciplinary and challenging study programme, which allows students to have a broad perspective on international politics and law, while looking in-depth into political concepts and local social issues. With vibrant interaction with renowned professors and bright peers, the Programme has equipped us with the essential organisation and analytical skills, and critical thinking, which are important for any career, be it in law, public services or elsewhere.

The HKU GLaws Programme has always been the correct choice for me. It was not just the training in analytical and critical thinking which proved to be invaluable to my career but my social awareness was greatly aroused. GLaws students will develop correct social values, gain positive attitudes and learn skill sets in human relations, leadership and management - all most useful for one's personal development.

I commend the HKU GLaws programme without reservation. I have learnt to think critically about not only what the law is, but more importantly what the law ought to be, bearing in mind the justice and needs of our society. During my undergraduate studies, I was particularly inspired by the courses in political philosophy and international relations. I have grown tremendously in terms of analytical, interdisciplinary and empathy skills, all which are essential traits for any successful professional career and meeting the challenges of today’s world.

The HKU GLaws Programme provides students with a unique, rigorous and in-depth intellectual exposure to various academic disciplines. The Programme structure allows for great flexibility, thus supporting students to pursue an intellectual journey of their choice and also thoroughly prepares a student for their professional career in the future. Furthermore, the Programme has opened doors for academic careers not just in Politics and Law, but also in Philosophy, and in my case, History. It was an amazing experience that not only had a positive impact on my career path but also my life.

CAREER PATHS

Employers look not only for employees who are skilled in one professional discipline, but also in possession of knowledge in multiple fields to address significant issues that confront modern public and private organisations.

HKU GLaws would enable you to acquire critical skills from a wide range of disciplines: political economy, philosophy, and law to strengthen your competitiveness. Knowledge of the law is considered an asset in many areas of employment. Most HKU GLaws graduates have found positions in the legal and government sectors, but others have also excelled in a diverse variety of careers such as journalism, business, academia, and non-governmental organisations.

The interdisciplinary and philosophical training offered by HKU GLaws has provided me with a strong foundation for rigorous intellectual analysis of complicated legal issues in litigation and arbitration.

Even with the benefit of hindsight and as a barrister now, I had absolutely no hesitation in choosing HKU GLaws over other options. The Programme was a precious and fruitful experience of self-discovery.

I was very fortunate to have the privilege of reading the HKU GLaws double degree. The Programme is enriching, stimulating, and opens doors to diverse career paths. Among the many valuable things students learn is the ability to analyse the intricate dynamics between law and public administration. I have developed a keen interest in public law since university days and have benefited tremendously from the Programme in my current practice which has a public law element.

I have made a lot of lifelong friends in my five years of university studies in HKU GLaws, and a lot of them have become my best friends. GLaws is also very intellectually nurturing. It prepares students with analytical thinking and a general awareness of what’s happening around us. I found what I learned in classes to be truly relevant to my day-to-day work in the financial industry, even if my job is not directly related to politics, public administration or law.

The thought-provoking education offered by HKU GLaws has empowered me to always challenge my own limits. This ethos has landed me positions far removed from government and laws, such as working with the directors’ office of a Hong Kong listed conglomerate, as well as taking up leading positions in various non-profit communities. Today, I am advancing my career in a leading law firm, backed by solid training in government and laws and diverse experiences in business. HKU GLaws is the right choice for every outstanding student who would not settle for less; who would constantly explore new opportunities and acquire multidisciplinary knowledge to understand the world better than their peers.

SHARON TAM, ‘13
Senior Associate, Mayer Brown

Speaking as a partner of a leading law firm, I affirm the fact that HKU GLaws would always be my first choice over all other options. GLaws blends knowledge and skills in politics with those of law, and takes the best of both worlds. This integration deeply challenged my critical thinking capabilities and allowed me to develop a unique angle in approaching problems and finding solutions, which in turn gave me an edge in advancing and sustaining my career. In view of the current political climate, Hong Kong needs lawyers and leaders who are not only good at legal techniques but also passionate about defending the rule of law and judicial independence.

ALVIN HO, ‘07

Diverse and limitless - are the right words to describe the career paths of HKU GLaws graduates, whether belonging to the four-year or five-year tracks. Our diverse choices of career include becoming lawyers, public officials, professors, investment bankers, consultants, startup founders, Fortune 500 brand managers and airline pilots. The cross-disciplinary curriculum that characterises the GLaws experience offers students a unique view of the world and a deep understanding of both local and international issues. This definitely helps us to excel in our professional roles.

I am proud to be a graduate of HKU GLaws. The Programme’s interdisciplinary approach enabled me to broaden my perspectives of the society and the world, to think critically and creatively, and to become part of a wide network of outstanding alumni working in a vast range of sectors. These benefits continue to bring positive impact to my personal development and career progression.

Reading HKU GLaws opened up a world of possibilities for me. The interdisciplinary legal and political studies offered by the Programme had sharpened my inquisitiveness and analytical power. With an inspired and enriched mind, I was always encouraged to look for creative solutions to problems.

I was formerly Assistant Representative of Hong Kong, China to the World Trade Organization, a role that constantly requires me to deploy solid research skills and sophisticated techniques of negotiations.

The study of politics and law involves rigorously training your analytical and public speaking skills. You also develop an ability to be comfortable with uncertainty, as the legal and political landscape is something that constantly evolves. Further, for those particularly interested in learning about or seeking a career in Asia, studying GLaws at HKU will allow you to learn up-close about political, economic, social developments in Hong Kong, mainland China and Asia, as well as engage in discussions with top-class professors in this area. As part of your graduation Capstone, you will also have the opportunity to directly help their research.

GLaws has offered a sturdy education on understanding the cutting-edge issues that lie at the nexus of law and public affairs in the world. With the robust support from both faculties surrounded by the sharpest minds, we are trained to think inter-disciplinarily, to discuss critically and to solve issues innovatively. Serving in Government and Laws Committee outside of the classroom has also been equally enlightening, GLC has launched different initiatives including the Global Dialogues Sepentia which gives me invaluable international exposure. These dynamic experiences have been undoubtedly transformative, and I invite you to join us on this journey.

The GLaws Programme not only provides students with insights on the theoretical aspects of the political-legal interface, but also offers them the chance to incorporate knowledge when understanding real-life public affairs. The interdisciplinary training that I received from GLaws has enabled me to critically evaluate pressing issues through the lenses of political science, public administration and law, which is of indisputable importance to obtaining a comprehensive understanding of the world. My experience on the Government and Laws Committee endowed me with opportunities to meet celebrated scholars from around the globe, which proved to be precious learning experiences beyond the regular curriculum.
The HKU GLaws Programme perfectly blends the study of political science and law, while nurturing students to develop a holistic worldview in public affairs. The multidisciplinary approach in GLaws encourages us to reflect beyond statute books and cases, but analyse the nuances that bring about these circumstances. I particularly appreciate the international focus of GLaws that equips students with a long-term outlook of contemporary global challenges. GLawyers are also eager to innovate out-of-classroom learning experience for their peers and contribute to public policy debates, which is manifested in the work of the Government and Laws Committee.

Besides offering a gratifying studying experience, the GLaws programme guarantees comprehensive intellectual development: the study of law rigorously trained my analytical abilities, while political science enhanced my empirical knowledge and introduced me to the nuances of normativity. Meanwhile, participating in the Government and Laws Committee has been a formative experience in my life, not least by allowing me to interview renowned politicians and world leaders, from whom I learnt priceless lessons I could never have learnt otherwise.
